Timecard Approval Access

Chapter 16
Timecard Approval Access

Section Objectives

At the end of this section, you should be able to:

- Create an Alternate Approver for emergency approval access
- Create temporary approver access
- Create an assigned approver to transfer approval responsibility
Timecard Approval Access

Approvers

There are three situations that could occur in which it may be necessary for a supervisor to set up another person(s) to approve his/her timecard notifications. That person(s) can then act as the supervisor’s proxy to handle timecard notifications on the supervisor’s behalf.

Alternate Approver for Emergency Approval Access:

- All supervisors MUST create an alternate approver for emergency approval access
- Alternate Approvers are set up by navigating to the Worklist Access link
- E-mail notifications are not sent to alternate approvers
- Alternate approvers can act upon notifications by switching users in the Worklist
- At a minimum, each supervisor should grant Worklist Access to his/her supervisor

Temporary Approver Access:

- Supervisors or any user can create Vacation Rules to allow another person to approve timecard notifications for a specific period of time, generally while the supervisor or user is out of the office.
- Temporary Approvers are set up by navigating to the Vacations Rules link and creating a Vacation Rule with start and end dates.
- E-mail notifications will be received by the Temporary Approver during the specified time period.

Assigned Approver to Transfer Approval Responsibility:

- A person can be designated by a supervisor to assume responsibility for approving that supervisor’s timecard notifications for an unspecified period of time. (An end date can be entered to terminate access on a specific date if needed.)
- Assigned Approvers are set up by navigating to the Vacation Rules link, creating a Vacation Rule but not entering an end date.
- E-mail notifications will be automatically forwarded to the Assigned Approver until the access is terminated.

Viewing the Worklist

- When an Alternate Approver has been granted access to another’s Worklist, the Alternate Approver can switch the Worklist to display the other user’s notifications. When viewing another user’s Worklist, the following actions can be performed:
  - View the details of the user’s notifications.
  - Respond (approve or reject) to notifications that require a response.
  - Close notifications that do not require a response.
  - Reassign notifications to a different user.
  - Request more information about a notification from a different user.
  - Respond to a request for more information.
- The user who has been granted access cannot define Vacation Rules for the other user’s Worklist being viewed. The user who has been granted access also cannot grant access to that user’s Worklist to anyone else.

You can approve timecards on behalf of the supervisors who have given you Worklist Access by clicking the Switch User button.

Alternate/Assigned Approvers Approving Their Own Timecards

If you Grant Worklist Access to or create a Vacation Rule (Assigned Approver or Temporary Approver) for a subordinate employee, that employee will be able to approve their own timecard.

In this case the subordinate employee should do one of the following:
- Reassign their self-service timecard notification to your supervisor for approval; or
Timecard Approval Access

- Use the Print Screen keyboard feature to print out their timecard and submit the paper version to you for your signature. The paper version should be retained in the department files for audit purposes.
